

ABSENCE AND LEAVE

- A month comprises of minimum 25 working days excluding weekly off days and one casual leave.
- Casual leave is applicable only after month completion.
- Any leave without proper documentation, reason or prior notice will be considered as days of absence.
- Salary for seven days will be deducted for each day of absence.
- Absence from work for more than three days will lead to immediate termination of the job tenure. The salary disbursement in such cases will solely depend on the decision of the CEO.
- In case of a medical emergency, leave can be granted if proper medical documents are submitted on the day of rejoining. Otherwise, those days will be considered days of absence.
- For an employee who is working from home, it is mandatory to maintain daily targets.
- If an employee who is working from home fails to maintain daily targets consecutively for 5 days then he/she will be marked absent for 7 days.
- Except for Medical leave, all leaves need to be informed beforehand.
- Application for urgent medical leave should be submitted before 8 a.m. on the date for which the leave is applied.
- No medical leaves will be considered without proper medical documents. Documents must include the details of the doctor/clinic and the date of visit.
- Urgent medical leaves will not be considered for more than two days in a month. In case more leaves are needed, the application should be supported by a suggestion/certificate from the concerned doctor mentioning the date.
- Non-medical leave for a maximum of 3 days should be applied at least seven days earlier and a leave exceeding 3 days should be applied 15 days earlier.
- Approval of any leave completely depends on the immediate supervisor.
- Information of leave through WhatsApp or phone call will not be considered as official until a mail is dropped.
- In a notice period, employees will not be entitled to take any leave.
- The daily task details for the given date should be updated on the same day or before 8:30 a.m. on the next day otherwise it will be considered as day of absence.
- A company can declare any scheduled holiday as working day (Excluding National Holidays) in the event of important work and the compensation for the same will be given on upcoming days.
